At <https://heidelbergkerlinfarm.wordpress.com/history/bolton-family/>, says in part, “The Boltons are descendants of an ancient English family that owned landed estates located in both Lancashire and Yorkshire during the time of the conquest (The Norman conquest of England by William the Conqueror in 1066). Originally Bodelton, the family has traced their ancestry back to about 1135, and to the Lord of Bolton, representative of the Saxon earls of Murica. Everard Bolton likely descended from the titled Bolton family. His parents, William and Mary and family, were Friends who suffered persecution with others on account of their religion (Quaker). Because of this, Bolton decided to come to America and take part in William Penn’s, “Holy Experiment.” Everard sailed to Pennsylvania on the ship Bristol Factor, with his wife and two children in 1682. As a Quaker, he brought a certificate of removal dated August 19, 1682, with him.” It’s unknown if he is related to our subjects, William James Bolton/Boulton or his brother, John Thomas Boulton.

Bodeltune (Bolton), a location, is mentioned 28 times in the Domesday Book, a manuscript record of the "Great Survey" of much of England and parts of Wales completed in 1086 by order of King William the Conqueror. Bolton was a settlement in the hundred of Pocklington and the county of Yorkshire. It had a recorded population of 2.7 households in 1086, putting it in the smallest 20% of settlements recorded in Domesday and is listed under 2 owners. Boulton was a settlement in the hundred of Litchurch and the county of Derbyshire. It had a recorded population of 5 households in 1086, putting it in the smallest 20% of settlements recorded in Domesday.

At https://www.familysearch.org/wiki/en/Bolton_\(city\)), Lancashire Genealogy, says “Bolton is a common Northern English name derived from the Old English bothl-tun, meaning a settlement with a dwelling, as opposed to a settlement without a fixed dwelling. It was recorded as Bothelton in 1212, Botelton in 1257, Boulton in 1288, and Bolton after 1307. Later forms of Botheltun were Bodeltown, Botheltun-le-Moors, Bowelton, Boltune, Bolton-super-Moras, Bolton-in-ye-Moors, Bolton-le-Moors. Also, at this website it says, “During the English Civil War (1642-1651), the people of Bolton were Puritans and supported the Parliamentary cause. A parliamentary garrison in the town was attacked twice without success, but on 28 May 1644 Prince Rupert’s Royalist army with troops under the command of the Earl of Derby attacked again. The attack became known as the Bolton Massacre in which 1,500 died, 700 were taken prisoner and the town plundered.” More information on the Bolton Massacre, can be found at <https://earlofmanchesters.wordpress.com/2012/05/28/on-this-day-in-1644-the-infamous-bolton-massacre/>, https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Storming_of_Bolton, and http://dbpedia.org/page/Bolton_massacre.

Religion was a major cause of the English Civil War. It was part of a Europe wide conflict between Roman Catholicism and Protestantism. At the start of his reign (1625) King Charles I, had married the Roman Catholic Henrietta Maria of France. In London, King Charles I, is beheaded for treason on January 30, 1649. Charles ascended to the English throne in 1625 following the death of his father, King James I. In the first year of his reign, Charles offended his Protestant subjects by marrying Henrietta Maria, a Catholic French princess. At <https://www.surnamedb.com/Surname/Boulton>, says “This interesting name is of Anglo-Saxon origin, and is a dialectal variant of the locational name Bolton, so called for example: Bolton in Cumbria (near Wigton); in Lancashire (near Urswick); also Bolton in Northumberland, Westmoreland and in the West Riding of Yorkshire. The name, in all cases derives from the Olde English pre 7th Century "bodltun", composed of the element "bodl" or "botl", a dwelling house or hall, plus "tun", an enclosure or settlement; hence, "dwelling house or hall in the enclosure." Locational surnames were usually acquired by a local landowner, or by the lord of the manor, and especially by those former inhabitants of a place who had moved to another area, and were thereafter best identified by the name of their birthplace. The surname is first recorded towards the end of the 12th Century (see below). There are two notable namebearers listed in the "Dictionary of National Biography:" one Richard Boulton (1697 - 1724), a physician, who published medical works; and one Matthew Boulton (1728 - 1809), an engineer who entered partnership with Watt, who he greatly assisted in the completion of the steam engine. The first recorded spelling of the family name is shown to be that of Robert de Boulton, which was dated 1191, in "Early Yorkshire Charters," during the reign of King Richard I, known as "Richard the Lionheart," 1189 - 1199. Surnames became necessary when governments introduced personal taxation. In England this was known as a Poll Tax. Throughout the centuries, surnames in every country have continued to "develop" often leading to astonishing variants of the original spelling.

An excellent site about the Bolton/Boulton family is titled, Bolton Family Crest, Coat of Arms and Name History, at <https://coadb.com/surnames/bolton-arms.html>. Although partially a commercial site, offering merchandize for sale, this site is very comprehensive in its sharing of the Bolton Surname Name Meaning, Origin, History, & Etymology. One excerpt from this section says, "William Boulton was born c. 1175 AD in Boulton, Yorkshire, England. His son, William Bolton or de Boulton, was born in Harewood, Yorkshire, England in 1196 AD. He died in 1287 at the same location. He married Emma Ruffus and had a daughter with her named Elizabeth. Elizabeth was born in the same town in 1222 AD. She married William Gascoigne V in 1248 AD, and had a son with him named William VI. Robert de Boultron was recorded in the Early Yorkshire Charters in 1191 AD. Thomas de Bolton was recorded in Warwickshire, England in 1262 AD. The Hundred Rolls of 1273 AD, a census of Wales and England, known in Latin as Rotuli Hundredorum lists two bearers of this surname: Michael de Boulton (Yorkshire) and Thomas de Boulton (Lincolnshire). Adam de Boulton was reeve of Dunfres, Scotland in 1287 AD. The Placita de Quo Warranto documents Ricard de Boulton in Northumberland c. 1292. William fitz Geffray de Boiultone del counte de Edeneburk was documented in 1296 AD. John of Boulton was a mason at the Castle of Linlithgow in Scotland in 1302 AD. Robert Bolton was documented in Lancashire in 1371 AD. The Poll Tax Rolls of Yorkshire in 1379 AD also lists one bearer: Agnes de Bolton." It's unknown if any of these persons with a Bolton-type surname are ancestrally related to our subjects, William James Bolton/Boulton or his brother John Thomas Boulton.

A unique resource was identified on the overall Bolton/Boulton family is the publication called, The family of Bolton in England and America, 1100-1894, a study in genealogy. Embodying the Genealogical and biographical account of the family of Bolton, published in 1862 by Robert Bolton, rewritten and extended to date, by Henry Carrington Bolton, published in 1895, at <https://www.seekingmyroots.com/members/files/G000851.pdf>. In this publication was found a section titled "Boltons in the City of London," on pages 108-29, which may be the Bolton/Boulton ancestral line, since William J. Boulton was impressed into the Royal Navy while living in London in about 1807. The very most of these Bolton/Boulton and other strange spellings of this family surname appear to be in the 16th and 17th centuries, about 150 years before our Bolton/Boulton subjects were born. This section speaks to a Sir William Bolton who was mayor after the fire of London, which started Sunday, 2 September and lasted through Thursday, 6 September 1666, see https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Great_Fire_of_London. Lord Mayor, Sir Thomas Bloodworth was mayor at the time of the fire and that Sir William Bolton, at https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/William_Bolton_\(Lord_Mayor\)), replaced him, although it appears that Sir William was not very good at administrating finances of rebuilding London. It is said at <https://www.historyextra.com/period/stuart/great-fire-london-story-how-why-started-destroyed-capital-pudding-lane-samuel-pepys/>, Sir William Bolton, for whom everyone had high hopes after Bloodworth, was in charge of administrating the £12,000 raised. It all ended in scandal, however, when he couldn't account for £1,800 and had to resign. Pepys, no fan of his predecessor, called Bolton's actions "the greatest piece of roguery that they say was ever found in a Lord Mayor.” It goes on to say at https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/William_Bolton_\(Lord_Mayor\)), “Bolton (who died in 1680) was a city of London merchant and a member of the Worshipful Company of Merchant Taylors. In 1659 he was elected an alderman of the City of London for Castle Baynard ward and became Master of the Merchant Taylors Company. Also in 1659, he was colonel of the Blue Regiment. He was one of the Sheriffs of London from 1660 to 1661 and was knighted on 11 October 1663. In 1666, he was elected Lord Mayor of London. However, he was unable to account for £1,800 of the collections made for those who suffered in the Great Fire of London and was accused of cheating the poor of the City. As a result, he was barred from attending the Court of Aldermen while an inquiry took place and eventually had to resign his seat. He became very poor and on 19 March 1677 the Court of Common Council voted him a pension of £3 per week.” This same Bolton resource traces the Bolton/Boulton ancestry back to Lord Oughtred DeBolton (1080–1155), Bowland, Yorkshire, England. Whether this Sir William Bolton is an ancestor of our Bolton/Boulton family is unknown.

One major reason why our Bolton/Boulton family may not be uniquely found in this resource is because of the name Bolton/Boulton itself. The meaning of Bolton/Boulton appears to be derived from a place or a settlement as stated above. Knowing this, many surnames were derived from locations. So, back in the day, if you lived in a Bolton/Boulton settlement, your name could have been John or Ann of (de) Bolton/Boulton, shortened meaning John or Ann Bolton/Boulton. But just because of your name, doesn't mean you are in fact an ancestor or descendant of our Bolton/Boulton ancestral family. Only through DNA testing, from a confirmed William James or John Thomas Bolton/Boulton ancestor or descendant, could it be possible to be part of our Bolton/Boulton family. So, it's very possible, the main reason we may not be uniquely found in The family of Bolton in England and America, 1100-1894, publication is because we are not at all related to these Bolton/Boulton families.

Genealogical and biographical account of the family of Bolton in England and America, deduced from an early period and continued down to the present time, by Robert Bolton, published in 1862, at <https://babel.hathitrust.org/cgi/pt?id=wu.89058582750&view=1up&seq=7&skin=2021>, is also an excellent resource on the Bolton/Boulton family, which is similar to The family of Bolton in England and America, 1100-1894.

The earliest Bolton/Boulton to America, that has been found is Johanna Bolton at <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:KCH2-FP5>. In this resource, it states that Johanna came to Boston, Suffolk Co., Massachusetts, British Colonial America in 1592, aboard the ship Bosphorus from Liverpool, England. She was 23 years old, born in Ireland in 1569. Her occupation is listed as a spinster, and she is also listed as an invalid. In this case, it's very likely that Johanna was both an unmarried woman and a woman who spun thread and yarn, since spinster was listed under an occupation category. In the case of being an invalid, she was likely a person made weak or disabled by illness or injury.

It appears that the first male Bolton/Boulton to America was Richard Boulton, who landed in Virginia in 1610, according to Passenger and immigration lists index: a guide to published arrival records of about 500,000 passengers who came to the United States and Canada in the seventeenth, eighteenth, and nineteenth centuries, by William P. Filby and Mary K. Meyer, 1982-1985 Cumulated Supplements in Four Volumes Detroit, MI: Gale Research Co., 1985, Print (ISBN 0-8103-1795-8). At <https://www.wikitree.com/wiki/Boulton-408>, suggests Richard was born about 1582. Richard Boulton age 28 immigrated to Virginia in 1610 aboard the ship Mary & James. Some additional information on this Richard Boulton and descendants can be found at https://sites.rootsweb.com/~tnsmith/oldpics/boulton_history.htm.

The earliest ancestral link to William J. Boulton, we believe, would appear to be William's great grandfather, Abraham Bolton, b. about 1718, Tottenham, Bedfordshire, England, d. 19 October 1764, Ulverston, Cumbria, England.

Note: Directly from above, William James Boulton and John Thomas Boulton were brothers. Therefore, William James was the 2nd great granduncle of David Boulton and John Thomas was the 2nd great granduncle of Ed Haynor, making our authors 4th cousins to each other.

William James Boulton Detail

It was first thought that William James Boulton was born in London, England on Piccadilly St., 24 June 1798, confirmed through William's U.S. Naturalization Record, dated 18 September 1833, Orleans Co., NY, at <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:QPRR-DZMV>.

But David Boulton who lives in Australia, a cousin of Ed Haynor, provided a baptismal record for William's birth, listed as Willm, baptized August 1798, with his birth recorded as June 1796, a full two years before William's U.S. Naturalization Record. The baptismal record shows William's parents as Abraham and Charlotte Bolton. This record is from London, England, Church of England Baptisms, Marriages and Burials, Westminster, St. Marylebone, 1538-1812, found at ancestry.com.

William Boulton's parents were Abraham William Bolton, b. 19 June 1773, d. 7 April 1847 and Charlotte Stocker, b. 1775, d. 12 April 1855. Abraham and Charlotte were married 29 May 1796, St. Mary's, Willesden, Brent, Middlesex, England, as recorded at, London, England, Marriages and Banns, 1754-1921. It's believed that both of William's parents died in England.

So, is this baptismal record, correct? If so, why? The probable answer is that Abraham and Charlotte had a baby, approximately one month after they were married at St. Mary's, since Charlotte was already pregnant. The authors have learned that marriage "in England from the fourteenth to nineteenth centuries was a mess. The church asserted that mere verbal consent, freely given and duly witnessed, constituted a binding marriage," see

<https://doi.org/10.1093/acprof:oso/9780198226512.003.0005>. Knowing this, there apparently were English customs regarding marriage validity, other than a church wedding. At https://www.phil.muni.cz/angl/thepe/thepe_02_02.pdf, it says, "Although Puritanism had a considerable influence on people's thinking, the gap between theory and reality was quite large. This can be demonstrated by the fact that 25 per cent of seventeenth-century Englishwomen had already been pregnant at the time of the wedding. This was not judged as harshly as we might expect. Being able to have children was a matter of an absolute importance in a woman, so having sex before marriage was the only way to 'confirm' this ability." Also, at this site it says, "the main purpose of marriage was having children. It was not only ensuring an heir that was significant; the husband could not act as the head of a family until his marriage had produced an offspring, so it was also a matter of social prestige. For a woman, the whole thing was even more serious. Infertility was perceived not only as a social defect, but as a downright punishment by God." It appears Abraham and Charlotte were part of this 25% and used William's baptismal year as William's birth date to avoid any adverse effect to William, his siblings, and his own family, later in life. If William was born a full two years before the recorded date on his Naturalization Record, as this baptism has recorded, William probably never knew of his actual birth date.

The cousin David Boulton from above, is the direct descendant of Thomas Boulton, William's brother, born 29 December 1811, Binfield, Berkshire, England, died 14 January 1896, North Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. Because of this Thomas being born 15 years after William, they likely never knew each other, since in about 1807, William was impressed into the British Navy, before Thomas was born (see right hand section), unless of course, they somehow corresponded through letters between the U.S. and England and later between the U.S. and Australia.

At <https://www.napoleon.org/en/history-of-the-two-empires/articles/the-british-navy-1793-1802/>, says this about the Impress Service or pressgang regarding the British Navy, "Founded long before the Napoleonic wars, the Impress service came into high profile during the wars with Revolutionary France.

The word impress was derived from the old French word 'prest', modern 'prêt' or loan/advance, in other words, each man 'impressed' received the loan of a 'shilling' (that is he paid the 'King's shilling' to enlist) and became a '(im)prest man'. The service was present in every major port in the kingdom. The daughter of William Finbow and Mary Kemp. It appears that John Thomas Boulton, went by the name of Thomas Boulton.

service's offices were called 'Rendezvous' with a Regulating Officer in charge, and he hired local hard men as 'gangers'. These thugs would thus roam the countryside attempting to 'encourage' men aged between 18 and 55 to join the navy. No one was safe from the gang, and often the only escape route when captured was to bribe the gang or to join it. A preferred target for the pressgang was the merchant navy, so it was not infrequent to find special hiding places on merchant vessels. Also, the return of prisoners of war from France was also seen as the perfect moment to impress crewmen, such that very often the returning POWs were turned round and pressganged even before they set foot once more on home soil. The captains of merchant vessels frequently took pity on those they were repatriating and tried to let them land in places far from the ports and the pressgangs."

William's U.S. Naturalization Record, says that he arrived in the town of Madrid, St. Lawrence County, NY, on either the 15th or 16th of August 1811.

Madrid, NY, is about nine miles from the St. Lawrence River, dividing NY State and Canada. During the War of 1812, Madrid, due to its proximity to Canada, developed a town militia, the "South Madrid Militia," see History of Madrid, NY, at <http://history.rays-place.com/ny/madrid-my.htm> and History of St. Lawrence Co., New York, at <https://ia800207.us.archive.org/14/items/cu31924028833015/cu31924028833015.pdf>.

The aforementioned Naturalization Record also says that since our William's arrival in the U.S., in 1811, he's lived in the U.S., ever since, with 17 of those years, living in Orleans Co., NY, specifically in the towns of Gaines and Carlton and holds a valuable farm by contract in Carlton.

In the publication "Landmarks of Orleans County, New York," Syracuse, N.Y.: D. Mason & Co., published in 1894, there are two references to William J. Boulton. In Chapter XXIV, THE TOWN OF CARLTON, on page 627, it says, "The south part, 60 acres, of lots 1, 3 and 5, sec. 2, was taken up by Barnabas Lowell July 16, 1824. It was articulated to William J. Boulton, December 6, 1833, and deeded to Jacob Lawrence August 6, 1836." On page 628, it says, "The middle part of lots 1, 3, and 5, sec. 4, 100 acres, was deeded to the First Congregational church in the town of Gaines April 25, 1822. The south part of lots 1, 3, and 5, sec. 40 acres, was taken up by William J. Boulton, July 14, 1821. It was articulated in two parcels to Heman Logan and Samuel Hale July 26, 1833; and to John H. Nichols December 3, 1834." So, it would appear that William, was in Gaines in July 1821 and property he owned in July and December 1833, he deeded away in December 1834 and August 1836 respectively. So, it's possible that his daughter Nancy who was born in 1835, was born in New York State, rather than Michigan, unless land deed sales were conducted, at least in part, through the mail back in those days.

Although the Boulton Family has gone primarily by the Bolton or Boulton surname in England, William's name was recorded as Boulton on the Naturalization Record. As stated in an undated letter by Mary Elizabeth

- Rose Bolton, Daughter, age 12, Scholar, Binfield, Berkshire.
- Abraham Bolton, Son, age 10, Scholar, Binfield, Berkshire.
- William Bolton, Son, age 8, Scholar, Binfield, Berkshire.
- Mary Bolton, Daughter, age 6, Scholar, Binfield, Berkshire.
- Joseph Bolton, Son, age 5, Binfield, Berkshire.
- James Bolton, Son, age 3, Binfield, Berkshire.
- Thomas Bolton, Son, age 1, Binfield, Berkshire.
- Charlotte Bolton, Mother, Widow age 76.

Emigration to Australia

The Thomas Boulton family departed Liverpool, England, 21 October 1856, on the Matoaka (some spell it Mataoka). The voyage took 95 days and they landed at Sydney Cove on the 22 January 1857. They were bounty immigrants, the total cost of the bounty was 13 pounds 4 shillings and 9 pence per person. Thomas occupation was given as Stonemason and Labouror, daughters Rosehannah and MaryAnn were House Servants; sons Abraham & William were Labourers. In 1857, the Boultons were living at Primrose Villa at the time of Rosehannah's marriage. In 1860 Family living at Avondale Thomas and Eliza owned land which was part of the Marshall Estate and is still listed as Lot 1, situated in the expressway turn off to Dapto "In New South Wales, assisted immigrant records may also be supplemented by a series of records known as the Immigration Deposit Journals. These are a record of the monies paid towards the cost of an immigrant's fare and can, once again, provide some very interesting clues. These records show, for example, that Thomas Boulton (note the spelling) paid monies towards the cost of the voyage of the Jones family. The Journals show a distinct discrepancy in the ages of James and Mary Jones which are stated as 38 and 48 respectively. The family is also described, on this occasion, as being of Vinfield, Berkshire while a Mr. J. Lawrence of the same place is listed as 'some person of note to whom reference can be made respecting the emigrants'. This record also helps to add further family members to the picture by stating that Thomas Boulton had also sponsored a William Jones who also travelled on the Sirocco. Ref In New South Wales, assisted immigrant records may also be supplemented by a series of records known as the Immigration Deposit Journals. These are a record of the monies paid towards the cost of an immigrant's fare and can, once again, provide some very interesting clues."

(Conner) Haynor, William added a letter "u" to his surname once in the U.S. and that he was born on Piccadilly St. in London.

Mary Elizabeth (Conner) Haynor, also stated in her letter that:

¹ William's father was a landlord in Lincolnshire, England, When quite young, William was impressed aboard a Man-of-War England gun boat (known as a 74) at a wharf in London to be a sailor. He was on this ship for four years.

When making his way to New York he hired out as a farm hand to ²Barney Kelly (Kelley). Barney was thought to have been a bodyguard of George Washington, as told to his grandson, Albert Clements Haynor. Barney Kelly (Kelley) was tall of Scottish heritage, about 6' 2" and that Nancy Hunter, Barney's wife's maiden name, was English. William Boulton married their daughter Nancy L. Kelly. (See the publication, "Was a Haynor Family Ancestor a Bodyguard to George Washington?" at <http://migenweb.org/ionia/meat/HaynorBodyguard.pdf>.

³ About 1825 they moved to Lenawee County, Michigan near a small village which he named Palmyra. William J. Boulton was commissioned Captain by Governor John Barry (Michigan) the 25th of April 1842. He trained soldiers and his training on the gun boat was military tactics and drilling. He was known as Capt. Boulton for years.

Notes: At the Internet site at http://www.migenweb.org/lenawee/communities_old.html, says, "PALMYRA: Founded in 1827 by Thomas B. Goff and named after his hometown in New York. The first postmaster was Alexander R. Tiffany. The post office opened March 27, 1833." We have no reason to believe that this finding is not true, since no other findings can dispute it.

Although another Internet site named "From Palmyra, NY to Palmyra, MI, Our Migrating Ancestors," at

<https://wayne.nygenweb.net/palmyra/palmyrami.html>, seems to confirm that William J. Boulton was a migrating ancestor, but apparently not an original one, since his name is not listed from those who came as early as 1823, up through the 1830 Lenawee County, MI census, since he is not listed in this census at <http://kent.migenweb.org/census/1830/lenawee.html>. Unfortunately, his name in the Internet publication from above is misspelled as "Borilton William J."

Our William J. Boulton also can't be found in the 1840 Census either, but somehow the "From Palmyra, NY to Palmyra, MI, Our Migrating Ancestors," publication found him somehow/somewhere. Perhaps it was the William Boulton in Hillsdale County, dated 8/2/1837. Hillsdale County is adjacent to Lenawee County. At the Bureau of Land Management at https://gloreCORDS.blm.gov/details/patent/default.aspx?accession=MI1150_109&docClass=STA&sid=uvdy5qz.kzj#patentDetailsTabIndex=0, the map of this property is in Hillsdale County, but it's right on the border of Lenawee County and who knows what the county maps looked like back then.

In the 1850 U.S. Census at <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:MF8V-LJY>, William, wife Nancy, children George, Nancy, Wallace, and Lucious are found. William is listed as being born in England, wife Nancy in Vermont, George

The Matoaka

There exists a 20-page document called the "Diary of James Ball, Voyage of Emigration, England to Australia aboard the Matoaka, 1856-57." The authors intended to give a summary of some important perceptions and events, as recalled by James Ball, age 43, an emigrant passenger aboard the Matoaka, from Wednesday, October 15, 1856, which ship left Liverpool, England on Monday, October 20, that arrived in Sydney Harbor, Australia on January 22, 1857. But the authors have found their attempt to give a summary, find it impossible because of the nature of the diary. There's just too much important information to share, which doesn't give the diary any justice. If interested in reading the diary, please send an email message to dnboulton@bigpond.com, and a copy will be emailed to you.

The authors have also contacted a website dedicated to the Matoaka found at https://www.wikitree.com/wiki/Space:Ship_Matoaka. The authors have asked the manager of this website if they would like a copy of this diary to post or link there. As of this date, the authors have not heard back from this Wikitree site.

According to <http://oceans1.customer.netSPACE.net.au/austrun-wrecks.html>, the "Matoaka. Emigrant ship, wood, 1092 tons. Built in New York, and Nancy, Wallace and Lucious born in Michigan. So, as child Nancy was born in Michigan, with her age listed as 14, she would have had to be born no later than 1836. So, based on this census, verifies William J. Boulton's presence in Palmyra, Lenawee, Michigan, no later than 1836, confirming the work of "From Palmyra, NY to Palmyra, MI, Our Migrating Ancestors," Interestingly, the 1850 U.S. Census has William's name listed as William D. Boulton. When you look at the actual handwritten census page, William's middle initial is very hard to read, actually, unreadable.

More information on Palmyra Township, Lenawee County, MI can be found at <http://genealogytrails.com/mich/lenawee/twppalmyra.html>, <http://www.migenweb.org/lenawee/>.

According to the Ancestors of Erin Boulton at, https://www.genealogy.com/fim/b/o/w/Erin_Boulton/GENE2-0007.html, William J. Boulton, "Came from England via Adelaide, Australia in 1812 on a British Man of War (known as a 74); deserted with 5 others upon landing at Quebec. Enlisted with USA in war of 1812. After the war, he worked at St. Catherine, Ontario, then moved to New York and served as a captain in the NY Militia. Moved to Lenawee Co., Michigan in 1835."

The author notes that St. Catherine, Ontario, is likely St. Catharines, Ontario, which is located on the southwest corner of Lake Ontario, about as far as a ship could travel on the St. Lawrence River at that time. The distance from St. Catharines, Ontario to Niagra Falls, NY, is about 14 miles. But the distance from St. Catharines, Ontario to Madrid, NY, as William stated in his 1833 Naturalization Record is about 312 miles and that Madrid is right across the river from Quebec, as Erin Boulton states above. The author believes that it would be hard to understand why William would go back into Canada, for any reason, since he would be putting his life in jeopardy, since he would be reported in Canada as a deserter.

Although the HMS Victory is a 104-gun first-rate ship of the line of the Royal Navy, ordered in 1758 and launched in 1765. She would, more or less, look like a larger size 74-gun Man-O-War. The HMS Victory is best known for her role as British Lord Nelson's flagship at the Battle of Trafalgar on 21 October 1805.

After 1824, the HMS Victory was relegated to the role of harbor ship.

In 1922, she was moved to a dry dock at Portsmouth, England, and preserved as a museum ship. She has been the flagship of the First Sea Lord since October 2012 and is the world's oldest naval ship still in commission, with 244 years' service as of 2022. More on the HMS Victory can be found at https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/HMS_Victory.

In regards to William enlisting in the War of 1812, a William J. Bolton was listed at <https://www.history.navy.mil/content/history/nhhc/research/library/research>

HMS Victory in Portsmouth, 1900

1853. Lbd 198.8 x 37.9 x 22.3 ft. Purchased by Shaw, Savill and Albion Company in 1867. Captain Stephens. Left Lyttelton, New Zealand, for London on 13 May 1869, with forty-five passengers, including thirteen women and eighteen children, a crew of thirty-two, and a cargo of wool and gold. She was not seen again, and it was thought she had probably struck an iceberg or been destroyed by fire. In 1868 she carried a consignment of thrushes, blackbirds, sparrows, finches and robins for New Zealand; their descendants are now legion."

It's believed Thomas and Eliza had the following children:

- i. Rose Hannah Boulton, b. 12 June 1839, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. 19 February 1938, Drummoyne, Canada Bay City, New South Wales, Australia. Married John Mull Murley (1829-1911), 27 October, 1857, Dapto, New South Wales, Australia.

Five Generations

(Pictured above in the center), Mrs. R. (Rose Hannah) Murley, of Warfield, Dapto (in the Illawarra district), who is 85 years of age, is a native of Berkshire, England. She came to Sidney with her parents in 1857 and went to live at Dapto. On her marriage she removed to Ballarat. She arrived there the day the Nil Desperandum gold nugget was found, and later saw the Welcome Nugget, which was exhibited at Ballarat for some time. Returning to New South Wales, she again settled in the Illawarra district, where she still resides. She is the mother of 12 children – 10 sons and two daughters – 27 grandchildren, 21 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild. The five generations represented in the photograph are: Mrs. Murley; Mr. William J. Murley (son) of Belmore street, Burwood; the latter's eldest daughter, Mrs. H. King, of Angel street, Burwood; Mrs. King's eldest daughter, Mrs. P. Scott, of Strathfield; and Mrs. Scott's baby, who is Mrs. Murley's great-great grandchild.

Note: Rose Hannah may have been blind. It's believed that she used to make marble bags for the missionaries to give to children. She was a staunch member of the Presbyterian church at Dapto and was supposed to have been a founding member. Rose Hannah was described as a tiny lady who was most always dressed in black. She wore a little black beaded bonnet with strings tied under her chin. She outlived many of her children.

ch-guides/z-files/zb-files/zb-files-b.html, in ZB (Personnel) Files in the Navy Department Library. This record is for the 19th Century (1800s). Whether this is our William J. Boulton is unknown.

At

<http://www.migenweb.org/lenawee/1812.html>, lists William J. Boulton as a Veterans of the War of 1812, buried in Lenawee Co, Michigan.

Also at

<https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/127783607/william-j-boulton>, and <http://www.migenweb.org/lenawee/1812.html> it says that William J.

Boulton was a veteran of the War of 1812.

Since our William previously was in the British Royal Navy, this author is assuming that William's involvement in the War of 1812, likely would have been with naval engagements, but so far, there is no proof of that. A good source of history on the U.S. Navy and the War of 1812 can be found at <https://military-historian.squarespace.com/blog/2015/1/4/the-war-of-1812-the-us-navy>.

At Familysearch.com lists 22 men with the surname Boulton who were in military service in the War of 1812, none with a first name of William.

Although there is one "William Bolton" listed as a private in Swift's 2nd regiment New York militia at <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:Q29V-R3BW>. Philetus Swift (1763-1828) was in command of the 2nd regiment, listed as a lieutenant colonel. Later in life, Swift became a state senator from the western district NY State. It is believed that Swift had at least some involvement with actions along the American-Canadian border, which is categorized in three sectors, southwestern Ontario adjacent to the Detroit River, the Niagara Frontier (including the adjacent coast lines of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario in Upper Canada, New York and Pennsylvania), and the St. Lawrence River (including locations in Lower Canada and New York).

At

<https://commons.emich.edu/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?article=2298&context=theses>, describes Lieutenant-Colonel Philetus Swift and that his regiment consisted of 470 men and was an army on the Niagara during the War of 1812. Swift's regiment was responsible for defending a 22-mile frontier. So, it's possible that this private William Bolton is our William J. Boulton since this is approximately where he lived.

In the "Memoirs of Lenawee County, Michigan: from the earliest historical times down to the present, including a genealogical and biographical record of representative families in Lenawee County," Richard Illenden Bonner, editor. Ethel 'Birdie' Llewellyn farmers of Palmyra township (Lenawee County, MI), was born in Orleans county, New York, March 14, 1832. He is the son of William J. and Nancy (Kelly) Boulton. the former of whom was born in London, England, June 24. 1798, and the latter at St. Albans, VT of scotch parentage in 1800 (or 1803). (William J. Boulton) came from Adelaide, Australia to America in 1812 on board a British man-of-war, known as a seventy-four, and he and five others deserted as soon as the vessel landed at Quebec. He then made his way to the lower end of Lake Ontario and at once enlisted in the States service in the War of 1812. For a time after the war he worked at Saint Catherine, Ontario, then went to New York, where he engaged in agricultural pursuits, and while there served as a captain in the New York militia. In 1835 he moved west to Lenawee county, Michigan, and purchased the property where the son (George) now resides, clearing and improving the same. He remained on the farm until his death, which occurred in 1886 (21 April 1885 at the home of his daughter Nancy Boulton (Haynor) Easton Township, Ionia County, MI), just thirty years after his wife's demise."

In the early development of Michigan, it was common for early settlers moving west from eastern American states as well as eastern Canada, starting in the early 1800s to settle in Michigan using federal and state land grants. Michigan was a public-domain state where unclaimed land was surveyed, then granted or sold by the government through federal and state land offices. The first sale of a piece of land from the government was called a land patent and the first owner of the land was called a patentee. Later, when the land was sold or mortgaged by private owners, the document was called a deed. The first federal and state transactions were recorded and the paperwork kept at the federal and state level, while all future transactions were recorded at the office of the county register of deeds. No land grants at <https://glorerecords.blm.gov/search/default.aspx>, can be found for William J. Boulton in Lenawee Co., MI. One can be found for a William Boulton in Hillsdale County, dated 8/2/1837. An additional land grant can be found for a William Boulton in Allegan County dated, 5/1/1839. Whether any of these grants are for our William J. Boulton is unknown. Two land grants were found in Lenawee County for a Thomas Boulton, dated 9/10/1834 and for George Boulton, dated 10/6/1835. Who Thomas and George Boulton are, is unknown. It's possible that William J. Boulton, bought property from one of these early Boulton men, as he likely made the move from NY State to Michigan near 1835 for his daughter Nancy L. (Boulton) Haynor, to be born in Palmyra, Lenawee County in November 1835.

William Boulton's parents were Abraham William Bolton, b. 19 June 1773, d. 7 April 1847 and Charlotte Stocker, b. 1775, d. 12 April 1855. It's believed that both of William's parents were born and died in England.

- Ernestine Murley (1920-1920)

An old resident passed away on Monday morning, Mr. William Boulton, at his residence, Hill-street. He fell ill on Sunday evening, the cause being the rupture of a blood vessel in the heart, and succumbed on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. He leaves a grown-up family. He was seventy-seven years of age and had passed the larger portion of them in the March area. Esther Mary Ann and James Henry Jones emigrated from England to Australia in 1864 on the ship Sirocco. There were two sailings of the Sirocco that reached Australia in 1864. Esther (age 48), James (age 46) and daughter Emily (age 16) emigrated to Australia on the second sailing of the 'Sirocco' departing London on 8 June 1864 and arrived in Sydney on 3 October 1864.

James Henry Jones

Lucius and Ella Boulton about 1902

Interestingly, it says at find-a-grave, that Charles Boulton, from above, son of William James Boulton, died in 1824 and is buried in Palmyra, Lenawee Co., MI, but George Boulton, born in 1832, was born in Orleans Co., New York. Also, that Nancy Boulton (Haynor) b. 1835, was ¹ Lincolnshire is about 140 miles from London. Binfield, Berkshire, England, where William J. Boulton's siblings were born is on the outskirts of London, about 40 miles away. This author wonders if the author's grandmother, Mary Elizabeth Haynor meant Berkshire rather than Lincolnshire?

² It has not been proven that Barney Kelly (Kelley) was ever a bodyguard (known as a lifeguard back then) to George Washington, although most lifeguard records were lost in a fire in the early 1800s. About 75% of the known lifeguards have been recovered through other sources, with the best comprehensive list this author has found is at <http://genealogytrails.com/main/military/eliteguards.html>, which includes a brief history of the lifeguards. If Barney was 6'2" tall as Mary Elizabeth Haynor described him, Barney may have been a body double, rather than a bodyguard. If so, with General Washington being so secretive regarding spies, informers, etc., we may never know if our Barney was a body double. It's possible too, that it wasn't William James Boulton's father-in-law Barney who was a bodyguard or body double, but it was Barney's father-in-law William Hunter who was the bodyguard, since a William Hunter was found to be an actual bodyguard of General Washington in the source above, and we know that Barney was married to a Nancy Hunter, if in fact this Nancy is a daughter of this William.

³ Although William and Nancy moved to Lenawee County, Michigan, it probably was not as early as 1825 (although Mary Elizabeth (Conner) Haynor, might have meant to write 1835), since son George was born in Orleans County, NY, in 1832, but daughter Nancy was born in Lenawee County in 1835. William and Nancy did move from NY State to Palmyra, MI. But this author can find no records of William and Nancy moving specifically from Palmyra, NY to Palmyra, MI or of William's naming the Michigan village Palmyra. See the following websites for more information, <http://genealogytrails.com/mich/lenawee/twppalmyra.html> and <https://wayne.nygenweb.net/palmyra/palmyrami.html>. Interesting too, since William's son George was born in Orleans Co., in 1832, Palmyra, NY is in Wayne County, NY not Orleans Co., NY. And since William's Naturalization information was identified in 1833 in Orleans County, William himself stated in 1833, that he had lived in Orleans County, for the past 17 years.

⁴ William J. Boulton actually died 21 April 1885.

Notes: It's quite possible knowing that our William, in America in 1811, and if he did serve four years in the Royal Navy, was impressed into service about 1807. If

It's believed Esther and James had three children:

- William Jones, b. April 1839, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. 20 February 1914, Kings, New York. At <https://forum.familyhistory.uk.com/threads/boulton-family-in-berkshire.14993/>, says that this William came alone to Australia in 1863-64, age 25, on the Sirocco. He was on the first 'Sirocco' sailing, departing Plymouth 5 November 1863 and arrived at Sydney (in quarantine) 28 January 1864, from Wokingham, Berkshire, England. His name was listed as William Boulton on the ship's manifest under single men. Why he was listed as a Boulton, rather than a Jones, is unknown to the authors. It's possible that Thomas Boulton who arrived on 22 January 1857, on the Matoaka, might have obtained cheaper fare, listing William as a Boulton, rather than a Jones. It's possible too, that William was born before Esther and James were married, therefore, born a Boulton. But in the British Isles Census of 1851, at <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:SG8P-ZKS>, William is listed as William Jones, a son of James Jones, age 12, born in or near 1839. Immigration records have William Boulton arriving also on 9 June 1869, 7 November 1871 and 4 December 1872. He was a cook/steward on a number of ships. He departed England 14 May 1902 to New York where he died at age 74 on 20 February 1914. He does not appear to have married.
- Thomas Williams Jones, b. 1842, England, d. abt. 1909, Comboyne New South Wales, Australia. He is listed at <http://marinersandships.com.au/1864/01/090sir.htm>, age 22, as a seaman on the Sirocco, 28 January 1864. He traveled to Australia on the same ship that his older brother William Boulton (Jones) did, who was age 25, listed as a single man. It's unknown if Thomas William Jones ever married.
- Emma Jones, b. 24 December 1846, Binfield, Berkshire, England. D. 31 July 1920, Paddington NSW Australia. It's believed that Emma (Emily) had one child; Clelia Maud Mary Jones (1873-1952) and two husbands; Thomas De LaMont (unknown-1873) and Joseph Petherbridge (1850-1908). It's unknown if Mr. De LaMont or Mr. Petherbridge was the father of Clelia Maud Mary Jones.

Emma Jones

so, he would have been around 11 years old at that time. And during the War of 1812-15, William would have been between 16 and 19 years of age. Likely, he never saw his parents or any of his siblings again, unless some of his siblings found their way to America.

Two land grants were found in Lenawee County, MI for a Thomas Boulton in 9/10/1834 and for George Boulton in 10/6/1835, may have been relatives of our William, therefore the reason he and family moved from NY State to Michigan.

Abraham Bolton, bachelor, and Charlotte Stocker, spinster, both of the parish of Willesden, in the County of Middlesex, were married by Banns¹ first published on the following Sundays, viz. (as follows): February 21st, February 28th, and March 6th in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety-sixty, this twenty-ninth day of May 1796, by me, John Wane, Curate; in the presence of Ann Stocker (her mark)² and Jeremiah Barr; both bride & groom made their mark.

Weekly Doles: Communal Support, also in the book of Charities-Local Householders, had the right to payments from a variety of local funds. There was a mention of Grants of 1 pound went to Abraham Bolton, a very industrious labourer & sober man with a family of five children.

² It's unknown who Ann Stocker was. But it's likely she was Charlotte's sister or mother.

The 1801 census recorded 808 inhabitants, 1821 found 1057, and by 1841 this had only grown to 1242.

1801 Census Abraham listed as living at number 27 Binfield.

Charlotte Bolton, female, age 60 Berkshire. Wife of Abraham William Bolton.

Thomas Bolton, male, age 27, Berkshire. Son of Abraham and Charlotte.

Elenor (Eliza) Bolton, female, age 22, Berkshire. Wife of Thomas Bolton.

Mary Ann Bolton, female, age 20, Berkshire, Daughter of Abraham and Charlotte.

Rosannah Bolton, female, age 2, Berkshire, Daughter of Thomas and Elenor (Eliza)

Abraham Bolton, male, age 0, Berkshire, Son of Thomas and Elenor (Eliza)

Note: Abraham William Bolton, male, father, born or christened, 19 June 1773, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. 7 April 1847, Binfield, Berkshire, England, for some reason, was not listed in the above census with Charlotte and their children. Interestingly, an Abraham Bolton, age 65, was living at a separate residence with James Baker, age 80 and his wife Elizabeth Baker, age 75, Binfield, Berkshire, England, United Kingdom. It's possible that Abraham was under the employ of Mr. Baker or had a separate residence as a landlord, since the residence where his wife Charlotte was living, was listed as "Household of Charlotte Bolton."

It's believed that Abraham Bolton and Charlotte had the following children:

- i. William James Bolton/Boulton, b. 20 June 1796, St. Mary, St. Marylebone Road, Marylebone, London, England. Christened, 31 August 1796 in St. Mary, St. Marylebone Road, Marylebone, London, England, d. 21 April 1885, Easton Twp., Ionia Co., Michigan. See detail on William James Boulton on page 6.
- ii. Ann Bolton, b. abt. 1799, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. unknown.
- iii. Nancy Bolton, b. 20 October 1799, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. abt. 1801.
Note: It's possible that Ann Bolton, immediately from above and Nancy Bolton are the same person since there's very little information available on either of them. They could also be twins, who died in infancy.
- iv. Charlotte Bolton, birth/christened 31 July 1803, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. 1805, Binfield, Berkshire, England.
- v. Charles Bolton, birth/christened 2 February 1806, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. abt. 1893. Charles married Olive Taylor, 11 October 1827, Binfield, Berkshire, England. She was born about 1809. In the 1881 Census, Charles & Olive were living at Talbots Cottages, Datchet (St. Mary) Buckinghamshire, England with a lodger by the name of Mary Hook. It appears they had four children:
 - Charlotte Bolton. Christened 7 June 1829, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. 20 September 1909, Greenwich, London, England. Charlotte married William Maslin (1827-1876), January 1848 Windsor, Berkshire, England. Together they had eight children as follows:
 - John William Maslin (1848-1914),
 - Henry Maslin (1850-1914),
 - Frederick Maslin (1853-1879),
 - Charles Maslin (1855-Unknown),
 - Charlotte Louisa Maslin (1857-1927),
 - Elizabeth Maslin (1862-Unknown),
 - William Alfred Maslin (1869-Unknown)
 - George Maslin (1873-Unknown).
- Note: It appears upon the death of William Maslin, Charlotte married Charles Maidment (1832-Unknown), in 1884 Eton, Buckinghamshire, England.
 - Charles William Bolton. Christened 22 May 1831, Binfield, Berkshire England, d. Unknown.
 - Matilda Bolton, christened 22 May 1836, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. Unknown.
 - Frederick Bolton, b. 1837, Maidenhead, Berkshire, England, d. July 1913, Devonshire, England.
- vi. Abraham Boulton, christened 11 September 1808, Peasemore, Berkshire, England, d. 23 August 1853, Mahaska County, Iowa. Married Martha Goodchild, b. 25 December 1814, England, d. 9 April 1900, Mahaska County, Iowa. Emigrated to the U.S., about 1837. Abraham buried 1853, Bedwell Cemetery, Mahaska County, Iowa. This Abraham Bolton/Boulton, might be misplaced, since this Abraham was apparently the son of Thomas Bolton, as stated at <http://sites.rootsweb.com/~burfordwoodley/6482.htm>, not Abraham Bolton and Charlotte.
- vii. Joel Bolton, birth/christened, 28 August 1808, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. unknown.
Note: There was a Joel Boulton listed in the 1841 England and Wales Census, age 34, born about 1807, Gloucestershire, England, but he may not have been a descendant of Abraham Bolton and wife Charlotte. Also, there was a Joel Boulton found at a gravesite (1806-1857) in Australia at <https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/123531363/joel-boulton>. It's unknown if this is the son of Abraham Bolton and wife Charlotte.
- viii. John Thomas Boulton, b. 29 December 1811, Binfield, Berkshire, England, d. 14 January 1896, Bay Road, North Sydney, NSW, Australia. Burial, 16 January 1896, St. Thomas Rest Park, Crows Nest, North Sydney Council, New South Wales, Australia. Thomas married Eliza Finbow, 25 August 1839, Warfield, Berkshire, England. Eliza, b. 17 September 1820, Docking, Norfolk, England, d. 19 September 1901, Dapto, New south Wales, Australia. Eliza Finbow is believed to be the daughter of William Finbow and Mary Kemp. It appears that John Thomas Boulton, went by the name of Thomas Boulton. (See detail on John Thomas Boulton and family on page 6.

At <https://www.familysearch.org/tree/pedigree/landscape/G9JR-JJX>, shows the father of Abraham Bolton, born between 1744-50, as Abraham Bolton, born near 1720, died 1764. Below is the information on this Abraham Bolton, this author has found, that meets this criterion.

In the paper, "Charity and poverty in Binfield, Berkshire 1775-1875: A Study of 'Industry', 'Desert' and Social Deference," Social History Society Conference, Trinity College Dublin, January 2005. This is an updated and supersedes a similarly titled paper for 10th International Economic History Conference at the University of Louvain (1990), by Margaret Escott, University of Reading, History, Visiting Research Fellow. This author found our Bolton ancestry mentioned through both Abraham born 1747 and his son born 1773. Here are some excerpts from that paper that applies to our Bolton family, especially as it applies to poverty during that time period:

- Page 8 – "Most charity donations were paid out in cash to non-paupers when tithes were collected on St. Thomas's Day, with eligible persons benefiting every two or three years. However, records show that sums were also set aside, or requested at short notice from likely benefactors, 'for such accidental calls as sickness or other calamity may point out' to try to ensure that a particular family or individual was not pauperized through a chance stroke of bad fortune. Thus, when Abraham Bolton's son (b. 1773, d. 1847) lost a guinea in 1783, his father (b. 1747, d. 1800) received 10 shillings and sixpence from Lord Suffolk and the same from the rector as extraordinary charity donations."
- Page 11 – "Desert (abandoned, shunned or neglected) as could be readily accrued if an individual or family was known and approved of by parish authorities, but those not considered especially deserving received commensurate relief, provided the overseers confirmed their eligibility. The policy of making payments when tithes were collected, itself deterred at least one potential recipient (Thomas Aldrich, husband of Elizabeth Bolton, b. 1775); while evidence that parish patronage was sometimes resented comes from Abraham Bolton's (b. 1747, d. 1800) 'damning of the gifts' before the churchwardens; the decision of the wives of John Sargent and William Vickery to collect their guineas unbeknown to their husbands⁶⁵; and a concerted but abortive attempt to widen access to the office of rate collector in 1801."
- Pages 17-18 – "A glimpse of how families who remained in observation coped with the transition from an informal 'juggle of resources' to a system dominated by conscious applications for reward and concomitant invitations to have their behaviour monitored is offered in the following case studies: one of the Boltons, admired by Wilson for their independence and 'industry'; and one of the Dowlings, 'Poor Labourers'. Abraham Bolton's (b. 1747, d. 1800) descendants remained independent of parish relief throughout. His widow died aged eighty-two in 1824, outliving Abraham by twenty-nine years. She paid her taxes, collected charity doles, apparently kept a grandchild in residence and passed on the partly owned/partly rented smallholding built up by her husband to her son Benjamin. Family fortunes were blighted by many early deaths including the loss of two daughters early in their married lives but their surviving offspring and those of her married sons remained in the parish. Family births and deaths were frequent. Benjamin and Abraham Bolton Jnr. (b. 1773, d. 1847) both sought charity assistance. In 1824, Abraham was the first recorded applicant to be refused admission to Bowes's Batson's and Wilson's charity. He was then forty-nine, married, and lived in a tied cottage (a dwelling owned by an employer that is rented to an employee: if the employee leaves their job, they may have to vacate the property; in this way the employee is tied to their employer). His children were between twelve and twenty-eight years old. He died in 1847 aged seventy-four. His brother Benjamin, who when widowed returned home to live with his mother, received twenty-seven shillings triennially from the charity and was never 'warned'. Benjamin's sons, James, John and Benjamin Jnr. were each admitted to the Charity in turn and also had their requests for places at the Charity School for their children granted. However, the trustees reprimanded James formally in 1841 and thereafter his name disappeared from the lists. Benjamin Jnr and John's widow Caroline, a needlewoman with a daughter of nineteen, are both listed in the 1871 Census but not the Charity lists. Benjamin, a widowed farmer and cowman, and his unmarried daughter, then kept the family smallholding."

Note: At https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Storrs_Hall, says that "Storrs Hall is a hotel on the banks of Windermere in Storrs in the Lake District, Cumbria, England. The hotel, a Grade II listed Georgian mansion, is also home to the National Trust-owned folly the "Temple" on the end of a stone jetty on Windermere. Situated in the Lake District, Storrs Hall sits alongside the Windermere. It stands in seventeen acres of grounds and woodland.

The mansion was first built in the 1790s by Sir John Legard, a Yorkshire landowner. After 14 years of owning the building, Sir John Legard became increasingly crippled by gout, and eventually sold Storrs Hall in 1804.

The new owner of Storrs Hall was John Bolton, born in Ulverston in 1756, who was a rich man and one of the wealthiest men of his class. He extended the mansion and created a park. John Bolton was a Cumbrian who made a fortune as a Liverpool slave trader. He bought Storrs Hall with some of the proceeds and used the residence to entertain in style, holding regattas on the lake which were attended by Wordsworth and Sir Walter Scott amongst others.

Elizabeth Bolton died in 1848 and the hall passed to her nephew Reverend Thomas Staniforth. Thomas was the son of former Lord Mayor of London Samuel Staniforth and grandson of Thomas Staniforth, also former mayor and slave trader. Staniforth moved into the hall in 1859 after retiring from his parish and lived there until he passed in 1887. As he never had any children the estate was sold off in lots.

Between 1940 and 1944, Storrs Hall (which had previously been used both as a girls' school and as a youth hostel) played host to the staff and boys of St Hugh's School, Woodhall Spa, who were evacuated from their own buildings amidst the airfields of Lincolnshire during World War II.

Today, Storrs Hall is a 4-star hotel.
