(page 1, col. 3) Willie Davis of River street, this city about eleven years of age. He lives with his stepfather, Lewis C. Davis and his mother. He didn't like to go to school and wouldn't go if he could avoid it. For several days he played truant. His mother went to the school house and discovered the truancy. Some school boys assured him that he was going get the worst whipping he ever had. That was too much for him. He rushed home ahead of his mother. He got hold of a single barrel shot gun, inserted a heavily loaded cartridge, putting the butt of the gun on the floor and the muzzle against his heart and with a ramrod pushed off the trigger and fell to the floor. The charge tore a large hole through his left breast, missing his heart by a fraction. He is still alive as this is written Friday but there is slim prospect that he can recover. He has admitted however that it was fear of hard whipping.

The Most Surprising Suicide in Adrian's History

(page 3, col.3) This morning (Saturday) John C. Lambie, for years chairman of the Democratic City Committee, lies at his home, No. 75 South Main street, cold in death, the victim of his own suicidal hand. He has been troubled about the business interest of the Adrian Canning Works, of which is the senior partner. Mrs. Lambie claims she has felt this coming for weeks and could not bear to leave him alone for fear he would do something rash.

Friday evening his father-in-law, John I. Knapp, was at the house and on leaving told him to be of good cheer and all would come out right. Mr. Lambie came here from Camburn, N.Y. about 18 years ago and founded the old canning works on Railroad street. He was 44 years old last July and ten years ago was married to Miss Hattie Knapp. His father hung himself several years ago over business troubles.

His mother, sisters and brother, still live in Camburn, N.Y. He also leaves three children, Johnnie, 7; Ellen, 9; and Josephine, 4. The jury at the inquest gave their verdict that John C. Lambie came to his death by his own hand on the morning of March 25th, by shooting himself in his own barn with an electric revolver in two places. One on the right temple and the other back of the right ear at the base of the brain and that it was done in a fit of temporary insanity.

Our city as shocked Friday evening to learn of the death of the Hon. William S. Wilcox at his home on South Main. At 7:10 p.m. he passed away, after a violent coughing spell. In the death of Mr. Wilcox, Adrian loses one of its strongest leaders. Mr. Wilcox was the son of Austin and Clarissa Wilcox and was born in the town of Riga, Monroe County, N. Y. on the 25th day of April, 1819. When he was yet a child his parents moved into the town of Bergen, Genessee Couty, that state where he lived on a farm, his father at the time managing a hotel, stages, postoffice, etc.

In the year 1836, he came to west, Milan, Ohio, where he entered the dry goods store for Ira Bidwell as a clerk. He then removed to Adrian, arriving September 13, 1836 and where he was still in the employ of Mr. Bidwell, who had moved his goods from Milan to Adrian. He remained in the store till 1840, in which year he became partner with Mr. Bidwell and continued until January, 1844, when the latter disposed his interest to the former. In the spring of that year Mr. Wilcox began business for himself. Soon after discontinuing the dry goods business, he started a hardware store, under the firm name of Wilcox and Chappell, after 18 months, he purchased the interest of Mr. Chappell and he continue the business alone until 1867, when his brother, Henry, became his partner.

In 1880 he became one of the owners of the Commercial Savings Bank and now it is called Adrian State Savings Bank. In 1864 Mr. Wilcox was elected a member of the legislature of Michigan and held that office for two terms. In 1869 he was appointed state prison inspector by Gov. Baldwin and was immediately president of the board. In 1866 he was elected president of the Michigan State insurance company, which position he held for 17 years. He had been for many years president of the Oakwood Cemetery Association. He became an active member of the Adrian Fire Department in 1841 and continued until the paid department (continues)

Col. Eldredge Dead

The death of Col. N. B. Eldredge occurred Monday at 4 o'clock at his home on Hunt street. Col. Nathaniel Bael Eldridge was born in Cayuga County, N.Y. on March 28, 1813, in the then young city of Auburn. His father, Daniel, was a Captain in the American Army in the War of 1812. He received an academic education and commenced teaching at 16. He was appointed a cadet at West Point by President Jackson, but decline because his father could not furnish the outfit.

Four years later he commenced the study of medicine under the direction of his brother, Dr. H. D. Eldredge and graduated from Fairfield, N.Y. Medical College. The October following he came to Oakland county, this state and from 1837 to 1843 engaged in the practice of his profession. In the meantime he had been married to Jeannette Patten, April 21, 1839. In 1843 he moved to Lapeer and continued practice medicine until 1853. Meantime he officiated as justice of the peace, chairman of the board of supervisors, etc. In 1845 he was a clerk of the senate and in 1848 a member of the house.

He was next elected judge of the Probate Court of Lapeer. In 1853 he was appointed postmaster of Lapeer. Upon the outbreak of the rebellion, he was the first man to enlist from Lapeer County. His company was assigned to the Seventh Infantry and before the regiment left the state, he was appointed major. In 1865 he moved to this city and commenced practice of law. In 1870 he was elected mayor of Adrian. In 1874 he was elected sheriff of Lenawee county. In 1882 he was successful in the Demorcatic race for congress and also in 1884. His term ended 1887.

There was born to Col. Eldredge seven sons and four daughters. His eldest son, L. B. during the war was a major of the Fourth Michigan Cavalry, and after the war sheriff of Lapeer county. His second son, Lewis T. was for many years teller of the Lenawee County Savings Bank. Daniel B. was in 1879 appointed station master and freight agent at Quincy. George H. a portrait painter of rare merit, is now here. John B. is now in the postal service as a letter carrier. The youngest son, David B. is in Buffalo, in the Lake Shore road's employ. The two daughters Louisa A. and Ella, the oldest resides at home and the younger is the wife of Wm. Smith of Ionia.

Double Tragedy

(page 2, col. 2) A terrible double tragedy took place this morning, on the farm of George S. Conger, one mile west and a half mile south of Clinton. As a consequence Conger and Dow Draper are dead. Draper shot through the heart with a shotgun and Conger through the head with a ball from the revolver.

Conger, who married a woman named Steiger, has been given what he considered conclusive proof that she was too intimate with other men and had made threats that we would lay some of them out. He went home last night and finding Dow Draper was in the house, he went to the tool house to procure a double barrel shot gun. When Draper open the door, Conger let Draper have the full contents of one barrel. Conger then went back to the tool house, locked himself in and put a ball thru his brain, from a revolver he carried in his pocket.

Conger was the owner of about 138 acres, left him by the death of his grandfather about three years ago. He was married to a Anna Steiger and it is understood all the property is now in her name. She has a mother and three sisters living in the village.

Draper was a properous livery man here, owning a barn on Jackson street. He leaves a wife and one child. He married a daughter of Jacob S. Smith, one of the first citizens of this village. (the article is extensively continues)
