Martin R. Palmer

The death of Martin R. Palmer occurred Friday, Dec. 29, 1893 at his home on Park street of a complication of diseases. Martin R. Palmer was born at Ostsego, Ohio, August 19th, 1835 and was married there to Emeline Baker, October 28th, 1855. He leaves two sons and three daughters. He was a soldier in Co E., 100th Regiment Ohio National Guards. At his home in Ohio he filled all the offices of the church, was township clerk for 17 consecutive years and justice of the peace for number of years.

He came to Adrian in 1882, has been a steward and trustee of M.P. Church ever since, was superintendent of the Sunday School and teacher always, also a trustee of the college for several years. He was taken sick during communion service at First M. P. Church, October 8th, and died at 6:30 sun time, December 29th. The funeral will be held at his home on Sunday, December 31st, with burial at Oakwood.

During Mr. Palmer's stay in this city, he had been connected with the insurance agency of J. R. Gilkey, with Mr. Luther of the grocery business and at the time of his death was conducting a successful grocery business on W. Maumee street, just west of West Branch School.

(page 1, col. 2) - John Osborne, an old resident of Tecumseh, died Wednesday (December 27th) morning, aged 78 years. About a week ago he was stricken by apoplexy, from which he never recovered. The funeral was held at the residence on Friday.

Baker and wife of Hillsdale County, Addison Hodges and wife of Ogden, Welton Woster and wife, two sons and a daughter of Lenawee Junction, Mrs. George W. Freeman and daughter, of Palmyra, Byron Bogue and wife of Mishawanda, Ind., Charles Baker and wife of North Reading, Hillsdale County, Mrs. Hervey Calvin of Adrian and Ezra H. Porter, wife and family of Fruit Ridge. They bought well-loaded baskets.

(from Coldwater 'Courier') The Adrian Daily Telegram says George Bullock is an inmate of the Lenawee County Poor House, many of our older residents will remember Mr. Bullock when he came to Coldwater at an early day with his brother, Sawyer.

He was a machinist and moulder and at one time was worth a handsome property. He finally became dissipated and squandered his property so that he went low down in the scale of humanity. Later he drifted to a small town in Illinois where he 'braced up', got religion and became a good member of society. He has passed his 80th birthday.

(page 2, col. 3) A very pleasant surprise party was enjoyed at the home of Ernest Greenwald, two and a half miles west of the city. Mr. Greenwald was 69 years of age New Years Day.

Mrs. Frank Stockpool's Story

(she was interviewed for this paper)

In entering the first room of the poor house, sitting beside a low table, on which lay pile of carpet rags, was an old lady of undoubtedly Irish descent. Her visitor asked for her life's history and she gave it in these words: 'I was born in Ireland, my parents were quite wealthy. I married and came to America with my husband forty-two years ago. We settled in New York, which my husband and I found ready employment in the woolen mills. My husband died after a few years and I was left alone with two children, who soon followed their father to the grave.

A few years after I married my second husband, Frank Stockpool. I soon found out that my husband was the son of a distinguished Irish gentleman and he had been brought up in luxury. We moved to Clinton, this county, 26 years ago, where we both found employment in the woolen mills. We saved our money and prospered. But the happiness did not last, Frank took to drink and gradually went down into degradation. Before I knew it, a mortgage was on our home and soon a second one, and it was not long before our home was taken from us.

Six years ago they brought us here. My husbands health was ruined. He died in this room last summer and was buried in the cemetery over there. I am thankful he was saved from the pickling vat at Ann Arbor. At the age of 75 years I find myself in the county house. Mr. Love has been kind to me. Contrary to rules, my husband and I were not separated, but were allowed this room alone, where we passed the time as best we could'.

Frederick Irish Finds Rest in Death

Frederick Irish, aged 72, one of Adrian's oldest citizens, was found dead, hanging by his neck in the woodshed at No. 51 E. Butler street Monday. Mr. Irish has been a great sufferer for the past three years. The grip has had hold of him with terrible force, leaving his nervous system shattered and his mind affected.

Had he lived until the first day of May, he would have been 73 years of age. Mr. Irish came to Adrian with his parents in 1836. They lived for many years at the corner of Broad and Maumee streets, in a large whitehouse on the site now occupied by the Board street M. E. Church. In his younger days, he learned the trade of a cabinet maker and was engaged with the late Mr. F. R. Stebbins and at the Lake Shore shops. In 1856 he went to work at watch making for the firm of Sigler & Gillet. He was a member of a number of Adrians early brass bands.

He leaves a wife, a sister, Miss Mary Irish, living with her niece, Miss Ella Irish on Front street and a brother, Charles Irish, also living in this city.

(September 26, 1894 page 3 continues:)

When the DeGraff boys returned to Palmyra, Mich., from Dixie, after serving throughout the war, they brought with them a pair of handsome white horses and the blackest, jolliest, strongest and most active colored boy, named Jerry Wilson.

Although full grown and old enough to vote, Jerry could not read, but he was ambitious. When he was a boy going to school in Palmyra in '67 and '68, and stood up to recite in the primer class. He learned to read, married, bought property and has been as good a citizen as the town contained. All of which is made of interest when it is stated that George Wilson, the slim and wiry colored boy, who pitched for the Adrians (baseball team), is a son of Jerry's and has inherited his fathers courage.

Death of Mrs. Winans

Upstairs in the little nine by ten building, No. 48 Tecumseh street, the body of Frank E. Hughes was found Sunday morning, cold in death. It was very evident from the first that it was a case of self-destruction for a battle of chloroform, a pistol and a hammer were found near his head. Frank Hughes undoubtedly mourned over the trouble he had caused between himself and his young wife, Bessie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Storey, doing business at No. 42 Tecumseh street, within two doors of where the suicide was committed.

May 18, 1893 Frank and Bessie were married. The marriage had been strenuously opposed by Mr. Storey, because they were mere children, Frank being in his 19th year and Bessie being less than 17. It was only after a strong effort and a threat on the part of the young couple to run away, that the consent of Mr. and Mrs. Storey was gained. The marriage took place at the bride's parents, with the groom showing his eccentricity by being married in a semi-Foutleroy costume, embroidered shirt with lace collar and cuffs protruding over the edges of a suit cut in peculiar fashion. Frank commenced early to abuse his wife.

About five weeks ago, he knocked his wife down in the street in one of his rages and in the home of Mr. Bain, on Erie street, bade his goodbye and stated he never wanted to see her again. Mr. Storey reached that part where forbearance ceased to be a virtue and sent his daughter to relatives in Chicago, where she remained ever since.

The whole trouble is said to have been started from an accident that happened in youth, when a bean became fastened in one ear and remained there some time before it could be extricated. This has bothered him ever since and he had had spells of ingovernable temper.

Frank E. Hughes was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hughes, who lived on Pottawatomie street, next to the Quaker meeting house, Tecumseh. John Hughes oldest son is Arthur, aged 25, married and lives in Britton. John is the next oldest boy, then came Raynor, aged 12 and the baby named Willie. The daughters are Emma Ruwait, Tecumseh, Lillie, aged 18; Katie is 16, and Etta is 9 all living at home.

Charles Bowerfind

After five weeks illness, peacefully quietly sinks to His final sleep. Charles Bowerfind was a native of Antzburg, Bavaria, Germany and was born February 7, 1831. He was the son of Christopher Bowerfind, a man of position, who was mayor of Antzburg for 10 successive years. His school opportunities closed at thirteen years, and he passed the succeeding three years in learning the baker's trade with an uncle who was a severe master, but a good teacher.

The remaining time until he was twenty-one was spent in Gratz, Austria, then according to German custom, entered the army. After a little over a year's service, he hired a substitute and sailed for United States. He arrived at Monroe, Mich., in 1854 and worked six weeks at his trade as a journey man. In the fall of 1854 he came to Adrian arriving with a dollar bill in his pocket. Here he continued to reside, variously engaged either at his trade or in commercial life. Finally with a capital of $250, a small house and lot, he and two others bought out the established business of his old employer, James W. Helme, Sr.

- Another Gone -

After two weeks illness, W. S. Sears, died Wednesday evening, at his home on Front street, of rheumatic fever. Walter S. Sears was born in Oneida county, N.Y. October 19, 1823 making him 72 years of age. He was the youngest of eight children. When he was six years old, his father died, and he was entrusted to the care of an older brother. At the age of 10 years, he went out into the world to shift for himself.

His first start in life was made on the canal, which he did for five years. Then for two years, he drove the stage between Frankfort and Rome; then went on a farm for four years. In the fall of 1844 he first came to Michigan and spent the winter with his brother in Hillsdale county. The following spring he received word about his mother's death and at once returned to New York state.

Four more years of farm life and then he began his railroad life, as station agent on the Rome & Watertown railroad. Afterwards took a position with the Michigan Southern Railroad. He held positions as freight conductor, passenger conductor, yard & depot master. In 1873 he was in charge of the yards in this city which he held for a number of years. After leaving the railroad, he purchased the food store of John Gunsolus on North Main street which he conducted successfully until a year ago.

Mr. Sears was married in 1856 to Miss Sarah A. Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Mills of this city. He survived by his wife and two children, George A. and Mrs. F. J. Taggart, of Kansas City. Mr. Sears was alderman from the second ward two terms, 1891-1895. He was a self-educated man, his schooling being limited to the instruction given by his teacher in the Sunday school. For many years, he has been prominently connected with the M. E. church, having been president of the board of trustees.

- Chief Bowen Arrested -

Chief Henry Bowen was arrested Saturday by Marshal Mitchell on a charge of riding his wheel on the sidewalk contrary to ordinances. Friday night, the chief was at No. 1 engine house and when he started for home, as Church street was broken-up, so he could not ride on it, he got on his wheel and rode down the sidewalk to Dennis street and from there took the street home.

Mayor Kirkpatrick lives opposite the engine house and saw the head of the fire department violating the ordinance so he entered a complainet and had him arrested. The case came before Justice Vandegrift and plead not guilty so that he might bring out who the complainet was. When Mayor Kirkpatrick had given his testimony, Henry changed his plea to guilty and paid $1 in fine and costs amounting to $5 in all. Henry gave the mayor due notice that he was after him and that if he doesn't have the mayor's scalp hanging from his belt for violating the ordinances before the week is out his name isn't Hank Bowen. There is prospect for a good natured picnic yet before the matter is done with.

- Dr. J. B. Reynolds Arrested -

The bicycle ordinance, it seems, is to be enforced rigidly. Dr. Reynolds was arrested Monday - that is he was served with notice to appear before Justice Vandegrift. The complaint was made by Marshall Mitchell, who says he has three other good witnesses. Dr. Reynolds is to appear in court, Monday.
